To Whom It May Concern:

My understanding is that there is a provision in this new law that will prohibit me from trading options in my IRA. Thanks for watching out for me, but it's my money and I should be able to do what I want with it.

Furthermore, I mostly trade covered calls in my account and that is actually a very conservative strategy. If I am correct that these would be prohibited, I am vehemently opposed to the passage of the law with this provision included in it. I would ask that all reference to trading options be removed from the law, but especially covered calls.

Thank you for your time and consideration.
